

CONTENTS OF VOL. XXVIII.

SUMMARIES OF POLITICS.

To Mr. Niles, proprietor of the Weekly Register, published at Baltimore, in the United States of America, 1.

Lord Cochrane and the Duke of Cumberland, 10.

Letter VII. to Lord Castlereagh, on the contrast between the return of Napoleon and that of Louis; and on the question of what is now to be done with France, 33.

To Correspondents in the United States of America, 65.

The late Mr. Whitbread, 79, 150.

Letter VIII. to Lord Castlereagh, on the surrender of Napoleon. Short-lived triumph of John Bull. John's injustice in grudging to pay taxes. His disinterestedness. The Pitt System, 97.

To the people of all parties in the United States of America on the necessity of their being prepared for the defence of their country, 129.

To Napoleon, 161.

Letter IX. to Lord Castlereagh, on the treatment of Napoleon, 165.

To the Back Wood's Men on the banks of the Ohio and the Mississippi on John Bull's Press; with a particular instance in the town of Dudley, &c. 194.

No. 1. of the Alarm; or excitements to a new war with America, 208.

Summary of Politics, or Notices for History, 211, 329.

Napoleon Bonaparte, 211, 331.

France, 220, 329.

Five Letters to Lord Sheffield on his speech at Lewis Wool Fair, 26th July, 1815; with an Appendix, 225.

American Hoax, 290.

No. II. of the Alarm; or excitements to a new war with America, 292.

To all those Protestant Priests who have for years been preaching and praying against the French Assemblies and Napoleon; and particularly the Protestant Priests of New England, 305.

Letter X. to Lord Castlereagh, on the Massacre of the French Protestants by the "Royal and Christian Army," 321.

Paper against Gold, and Glory against Prosperity, to the people in and near Salisbury—Letter XXX. 361.

Letter XXXI. 365.

Letter XXXII. 39.

REMARKS.

Historical Notices of the war against Napoleon and France, 14.

Proceedings of the French Legislature, 24.

To Correspondents in the United States of America, 41.

Napoleon Bonaparte, 42, 116.

Defeat of the Algerine fleet by the Americans, 44.

The French Armies, 46.

Dissolution of the Legislative Body—Entrance of Louis XVIII. into Paris, 46.

The Allied Sovereigns at Paris—Joy of the Parisians, 58.

Tythes, 82.

Arrests and Proscriptions in France, 125.

To John Bull on the hopes of seeing America a bankrupt, 145.

To Admiral Sir A. Cochrane, &c. respecting Intercepted Letters, 148.

American Exposition, 177.

Dartmoor Prison, and the killed and wounded Americans, 339.

To Correspondents, on the Subject of Emigration to America, 397.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A Reformist on the Borough System, 85, 191.

State of France, 87.

M. Birkbeck to the Right Hon. H. Grattan, 110.

A Tale on the Borough System, 112.

W. F. on the late Mr. Whitbread, 150.

An Independent Elector to Sir Francis Burdett, 115.

CONTENTS OF VOL. XXVIII.

Justitia on the surrender of Napoleon, 154.
Civis, on the Waterloo Subscription, 157.
—, on National Liberty, 390.
Hortator on the policy of punishing the adherents of Napoleon, 178.
Humanus, to Morris Birkbeck, Esq. 185.
A True Briton on Political Vengeance, 189.
Political Integrity, 351.
Political Delusion, by X. 356.
The Causes and Effects of Despotism, 358.
Honestas on Napoleon's two conditional abdications, 387.
Domestic Embarrassments, by Common Sense, 405.
A. M'Kenrot, as to Napoleon, 414.

POETRY.

On hearing of the Surrender of Paris, by J. M. 64
Ode to Napoleon, by H. R. M. 415.

OFFICIAL PAPERS.

FRANCE.—Military Convention of Paris, 14.
The King to the French People, 20, 22.
Proclamation of Barclay De Tolly to the French, 22.
Order of the Day of Prince Schwartzberg, 23.
Letter, the Prince of Eckmuhl to Lord Wellington, 24.
Address of the Chambers of Peers and Representatives to the people of France, 31.
Napoleon to the brave soldiers of the army before Paris, 41.
Declaration of the Chamber of Representatives, 48.
Proclamation of the Commission of Government to the French, 49.
Report on the New Constitution, 51.
Message Dissolving the Legislative Body, 52.
Speech of the Prefect of Paris to the King, 54.
Answer of the King, 55.
Decree appointing a new Ministry, 56.
Ordinance of the King, changing the names of public places in Paris, 89.
— respecting the Electoral Colleges, 50.

Letter, the Prince of Eckmuhl to Gen. Bagniol, 92.
Order of the Day of Gen. Bagniol, 93.
Report of the Captain of the frigate De Rigay, respecting Napoleon, 114.
List of persons who went on board the Bellerophon with Napoleon, 115.
Ordinance of the King respecting the Liberty of the Press, 119.
Address to the King by the Army of the Loire, 121.
— of the Prince Eckmuhl to the Army, 122.
Proclamation of Prince Blucher on entering France, 122.
Ordinance of the King, proscribing certain Members of the Chamber of Peers, 125.
Ordinance of the King for arresting Ney, Labedoyere, &c. 126.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Prince Regent's Speech at the close of the Session of Parliament, July 12th, 60.
Gazette of the Surrender of Napoleon, 96.
Letter of Captain Maitland to J. W. Croker, respecting Napoleon, 114.
Letter and Memorial, Earl Bathurst to the Lords of the Admiralty, respecting the treatment of Napoleon, 335.
Protest of Napoleon, 338.

RUSSIA.—Manifesto of the Emperor Alexander, 17th June, 93.

AMERICA.—Report relative to the Killing and Wounding of the American Citizens imprisoned at Dartmoor, 309.
Return of the American prisoners of war Killed and Wounded at Dartmoor, 341.
Reply to the Report respecting the Killed and Wounded at Dartmoor, 343.
Letter from Quincey Adams, respecting the Peace with Algiers, 418.

AUSTRIA.—State Paper respecting an asylum to Joachim Murat, 339.